CURATIVE PROPERTIES OF OIL SPRINGS.—The following passage, copied from the Massachusetts Magazine for July, 1791, may interest those who have "struck, or are expecting to strike, ile":

ACCOUNT OF SOME REMARKABLE SPRINGS.—In the northern parts of Pennsylvania there is a creek called Oil Creek, which empties itself into the Alleghany river, issuing from a spring on the top of which floats an oil similar to what is called Barbadoes tar, and from which may be collected by one man several gallons in a day. The American troops, in marching that way, halted at the springs, collected the oil, and bathed their joints with it. This gave them great relief, and freed them immediately from the rheumatic complaints with which many of them were affected. The troops drank freely of the water; they operated as a gentle purge.

There is another spring in the western part of Virginia as extraordinary in its kind as the one just mentioned, called the Burning Spring. It was known a long time to the hunters. They frequently encamped by it for the sake of obtaining good water. Some of them arrived late one night, and after making a fire, took a brand to light them to a spring. On their coming to it some fire dropped from the brand, and instantly the water was in a flame and so continued, over which they could roast their meat as soon as by the greatest fire. It was left in this situation and continued burning for three months without intermission. The fire was extinguished by excluding the air from it, or smothering it. The water taken from it into a vessel will not burn. This shows that the fire is occasioned by nothing more than a vapor that ascends from the water.

There are two springs, high on the Powtomac river, which has about the same degree of heat as blood running from the veins. It is much frequented by persons who have lost their health. The waters are drank with freedom, and also serve as a hot bath, by which much good has been experienced. The other spring, issuing from the same mountain, a little farther on, is as remarkable for its coldness, as the other for its heat, and differs from common springs in as many degrees.—Mass. Am. Ac. Arts and Science.

HOW SHERMAN SNUBS ARROGANT FOOLS.—A Savannah letter tells how General Sherman answers the many impertinent questions and insolent sallies of the stubborn "die-in-the-last-ditch" sort of rebels:

Speaking of subjugation, Gen. Sherman has a very terse way of meeting this difficulty. To a proud lady who said to him, "General, you may conquer, but you can't subjugate us," he instantly replied, "I don't want to subjugate you, I mean to kill you—the whole of you, if you don't stop this rebellion."

To another, who wanted to know of him how long the war would last: "Well, well," in his rapid earnest manner, "I don't know; perhaps six or eight years, and then twenty or twenty-five years of guerrilla warfare; long enough to destroy this whole generation, and then we'll begin anew." In this way he dashes their arrogance, right and left, to the winds, and they leave his presence utterly confounded, and, at least, with due respect to the Yankee General.

SATURDAY MORNING, MARCH 25, 1865.

THE WEEKLY OREGONIAN.

THE WEEKLY OREGONIAN is published this morning. It contains the latest telegraphic news from the East and California,—a selection of the best articles appearing in THE DAILY OREGONIAN,—full and reliable news from the Mines, and the most copious commercial information published by any paper in the State.

The average amount of reading matter in the WEEKLY OREGONIAN is double that published by any other journal in Oregon; and in the particular of Commercial statistics and the Markets we aim to make it the most reliable, more especially in matters pertaining to Oregon interests.

What the Rebels Demand.

We are certainly under very great obligations to the Rebel Peace Commissioners for their clear and explicit enunciation of the only terms, upon which they would consent to end the present war. They premised one condition, and unless that condition should be granted, absolutely refused any further conference on the subject of peace. This preliminary condition was, of all others, just the one our Government can never afford to grant. In short, it embodies the entire principle for which the country has from the first contended. The rebel Commissioners summed up their demands in one word, and obstinately rejected all overtures which should not refer to that word as a starting-point. This single preliminary condition was "Southern Independence."

The great value to the country of the conference between the President and the rebel Commissioners, is found in the fact that the question at issue is now cleared of all obscurities. None can now any longer misapprehend the nature of the matter in dispute. All parties at the North have professed the deepest devotion to the Union. None can now choose but know that there is but one possible way to save it. The peace conference utterly dispels all hopes of adjustment by diplomacy or negotiation. On the very threshold of negotiations for peace, our Government is met by the rebels with the declaration that the only terms of accommodation to which they will accede must be preceded by a condition which grants them absolute independence.

In order to effect some amicable arrangement of existing difficulties, the President laid the matter before the Rebel Commissioners in every imaginable way. But in no instance would they forego their demand for recognition. This, they said, was a condition which their Government had made positively indispensable to any discussions concerning peace. Even when the President assured them that Congress would in all probability, adopt such legislation as would subserve their interests and be acceptable to them, they did not, for one moment, swerve from their original demand. The utter hopelessness of any good results from the conference, was at once made manifest. Of course the independence of the South could not be conceded, and no alternative remained but to prosecute the war.

After the rebel embassy returned to Richmond, a great war meeting was held in that city. The old process of "firing the Southern heart" was appealed to once more. Many in the South, seeing only destruction awaiting them, had become desirous of peace. The rebel leaders hoped to silence these clamors by demonstrating that peace could not be obtained on the terms which they claimed the right to demand. They further hoped to unite all parties for a vigorous defence. Fiery appeals were made, such as were wont in other days to inflame the public mind and similar to those which produced that lamentable eclipse of reason among the Southern people that led them to perpetrate both the blunder and the crime of attempting to destroy the Government. The South has been so often deceived by the gasconade of its leaders, that experience ought by this time have shown them, as it certainly would any other people, how little this empty bombast is to be relied on.

In the course of these fulminating war speeches, many admissions were made relating to the desperate straits to which the rebellion is reduced. Benjamin, the rebel Secretary, declared that the South did not contain a sufficient number of white men to enable the war to go on much longer. He argued the necessity of putting negroes into the army. He proposed to offer them freedom in return for their services, for said he, "If you do not, they will fight against you." In substance, he told them further, that the resources of the country are so exhausted that voluntary contributions must be had for the support of the cause.

We now know precisely what the rebels demand. They will not recede one step from their absurd claim for independence until it is out of their power longer to make any effectual resistance. When they relinquish that claim, peace will at once be restored. Sturdy blows will soon bring them to submission. The military prospect is full of hope. Not a single reverse has lately occurred to the national arms. The rebels are asked to yield obedience to the same laws to which loyal men are subject. When they are ready to do this, there will be an end of the war.

LOUISIANA.—The secession of Louisiana accomplished the complete destruction of her valuable commerce, and also annihilated every branch of her industry. The occupation of the chief city of the South by the national forces, was a heavy loss to the rebellion. Trade with New Orleans, except under military restrictions, was at once extinguished. Business there has, however, during the last three years, been gradually resumed, and trade is again falling into its natural channels. The military regulations that for a long time existed in restraint of trade, are gradually giving way, and we may soon expect the utmost freedom in these transactions again to prevail there. Louisiana is naturally of infinite importance to the Union. Under the enterprising system of free labor she will soon fulfill the most sanguine hopes ever held of her great wealth and commercial importance. She will soon be bound to the Union by a similarity of interests and by the indissoluble ties of a profitable commerce. Free Louisiana will be more firmly bound to the Union than of old. The incompatibility that formerly existed between her and her sisters will soon exist no more.

NO LATER TELEGRAPHIC NEWS.—We have been without any eastern dispatches for the space of some days. The overland line was down the day before yesterday; whether it has yet been repaired we do not know. On Thursday evening the line parted between here and Oregon City, consequently we are left without California news. Yesterday parties went out to repair the break. Communication will, no doubt, soon be restored.

CAVALRY RECRUITS.—The Multnomah county cavalry company is recruiting with very satisfactory rapidity. So far forty-two men have been enlisted. From all parts of the State we hear the gratifying news that the regiment is fast filling up. We are informed that the prospect is fair for the Multnomah company to be full soon.

Amendment of the Constitution.

[illegible]

The people of Oregon [illegible] question, [illegible] I have stated as a general fact, that those [illegible] with whom I have associated, who are in favor of perpetuating the existence of slavery, are against convening the legislature in special session, and that those who are for [illegible] slavery, the cause of all our national sorrows, [illegible] are in favor of the measure.

"A true [illegible] was presented by the President of the United States [illegible] on the occasion of the passage of the amendment of the Constitution by Congress. I desire here to repeat it:

"'The President said [illegible] the passage through Congress of the constitutional amendment for the abolishment of slavery throughout the United States, was the occasion to which he was indebted for the call. The occasion was one of congratulation to the country and to the whole world. But there is a task yet before us—to go forward and consummate by the votes of the States that which Congress so nobly began yesterday. He had the honor to inform those present that Illinois had already done the work. Maryland was about half through, but he felt proud that Illinois was a little ahead. He thought this measure was a very fitting, if not an indispensable adjunct to the winding up of the great difficulty. He wished the reunion of all the States perfected, and so effected as to remove all causes of disturbance in the future, and to attain this end it was necessary that the original disturbing cause should be rooted out. He thought all would bear him witness that he had never shrunk from doing all that he could to eradicate slavery by issuing an Emancipation Proclamation. But that proclamation falls far short of what the amendment will be when fully consummated. A question might be raised whether the proclamation was legally valid. It might be added that it only aided those who came into our lines, and that it was inoperative as to those who did not give themselves up, or that it would have no effect on the children of the slaves born hereafter. In fact it would be urged that it did not meet the evil. But this amendment is a king's cure for all the evils. It winds the whole thing up. He would repeat that it was the fitting, if not the indispensable adjunct to the consummation of the great game we are playing. He could not but congratulate all present, himself, the country and the whole world upon this great moral victory.'"

Every word uttered by the President in this case is true. The emancipation proclamation falls far short of what the amendment will be when fully consummated. It will meet every quibble on which slavery may claim existence; it is an indispensable adjunct to close the great drama of our day.

Can there be a question of the duty of Oregon in this case? Shall Oregon, by delay, jeopardize the consummation of this amendment? Is she willing, or are her chosen rulers willing, to assume the hazard of delay? What rivers of blood have been shed by our departed brethren to be worse than wasted, if this amendment fail! A fearful responsibility rests on the Executive of Oregon. The history of the past will tell to future generations on this coast that he has done well—and I cannot, I do not, believe he will hesitate in duty now. He will go forward, and so far as in him lies, will consummate the great work that Congress has pointed out for him and the State to do.

I have faith that the loyal States will promptly march up to the work of duty. Oregon, for a thousand reasons, should be one of them. The defeat of this measure—its loss by delay—would call down upon this derelict, the execrations of a humane and a Christian world in all time to come.

OREGON.

GEN. ALVORD TO GO TO WASHINGTON CITY.—It will be seen by the accompanying order from Gen. McDowell, that Gen. Alvord is required to repair from hence to the East. We take leave of Gen. Alvord with profound regret. The able and acceptable manner in which he has discharged his duty during his many years of service here, has won for him the consideration and esteem of all. We publish also Gen. Alvord's order on relinquishing the command to Col. R. F. Maury:

HEADQUARTERS, DEPARTMENT OF PACIFIC,
SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., March 7, 1865.

GENERAL ORDERS, No. 15.

Brigadier-General Benjamin Alvord will turn over the command of the District of Oregon to the senior officer on duty under him—and then proceed in compliance with instructions from the War Department to Washington City, and report in person to the Adjutant General of the Army.

The occasion is taken to commend the zeal, activity and fidelity with which General Alvord has discharged the duties of his command.

By command of Major General McDowell,
R. C. DRUM,
Assistant Adjutant General.

HEADQUARTERS, DISTRICT OF OREGON,
FT. VANCOUVER, W. T., March 21, 1865.

GENERAL ORDERS, No. 14.

1. Brigadier General Benjamin Alvord, U. S. Volunteers, hereby relinquishes his command of the District of Oregon, pursuant to General Orders No. 15, of the 7th instant, from Headquarters, Department of the Pacific.

2. Colonel R. F. Maury, 1st Oregon Cavalry will assume command of the District. General Alvord cannot refrain from taking this opportunity to thank the troops, officers and men for their valuable services under his command, and to congratulate them, that his successor is an officer calculated in every way to maintain the honor of the Government, and to win the confidence of the troops.

By order of Brig. General Alvord,
W. I. SANBURN,
Second Lieut. 1st W. T. Infantry,
A. A. Adjt. General.

REBEL PRIVATEERS.—In the rebel service, so far as known, there are now five vessels traversing the high seas for the purpose of committing depredations on our commerce. These are the Sorcerer, Olustee, Edith, Tallahassee and Shenandoah. The Chickamauga, the sixth on the list, was entrapped in Cape Fear river when Fort Fisher was taken, and, according to reports, subsequently blown up to prevent her from falling into Porter's hands. Not long since it was asserted with apparent truth, that another vessel had left an English port, intending to proceed to the vicinity of the Western Islands and there receive her armament from a ship, appointed to meet her, proposing then to hoist the rebel flag. If this be true, we shall probably hear of her piratical attacks on our commerce.

FERNANDO WOOD.—The following resolution proposed by Fernando Wood, lately passed the National House of Representatives. Wood, the chameleon, pretends now to be afraid lest Mr. Lincoln shall make terms too favorable to the rebels. Is the "Democracy" really going to support the war they have so long denounced? Here is the resolution:

Resolved, That it is the duty of the President to maintain in every contingency and loyal manner, the integrity of the American Union, as formed by the fathers of the Republic, and in no event and under no circumstances to proffer or accept negotiations which shall admit, by the remotest implication, the existence of any other federal, or confederate government within the territory of the United States.

CONSOLIDATION OF THE 1st W. T. INFANTRY.—Pursuant to instructions from Headquarters, Department of the Pacific, the following consolidation of the 1st regiment of W. T. Infantry is ordered.

Companies G and [illegible] are consolidated into one Company, which will be designated as "[illegible]" Company, and officered as follows: W. W. Thompson, Captain; Wm Kapus, 1st Lieutenant and Chas. F. West 2d Lieutenant. The transfer of the men of Company G will take place on the day of the arrival of the order at Fort Boise, to which place Capt. Thompson is ordered, to take command of his Company.

Second Lieutenant, A. [illegible] Watson is ordered to relieve Capt. Thompson in the command of Company A.

On the completion of this consolidation, the following named officers will repair to Fort Vancouver to be honorably mustered out of service: Captains E. Barry, [illegible] and J. H. Tucker; 1st Lieutenants J. [illegible] South, P. B. Silyan, Samuel Purdy, L. Hetzer, and [illegible] Edwards, J. B. Hardenbaugh and James H. [illegible]. The surplus non-commissioned officers will also be mustered out of service.—[illegible]

HOTEL BURNED.—Swift & Vennason's Hotel, at Upper Umatilla, was destroyed by fire on the 7th instant, together with all the furniture in the house, excepting a few beds. The fire caught from a defective stovepipe in one of the upper rooms, and the room was all in flames when the fire was discovered. The day being a very windy one rendered all efforts to extinguish the fire unavailing.—Walla Walla Statesman.

WALLA WALLA ITEMS.—We take the following from the Walla Walla Statesman of the 17th:

[illegible] Col. Steinberger left for Vancouver on Wednesday. [illegible] will be mustered out of service [illegible] his regiment [illegible] commissioned staff.

Capts. Thompson's and S[illegible]'s companies of the 1st W. T. Infantry, have been ordered to Vancouver to be mustered out of service. They will leave on Monday next. Capt. Thompson's company goes out on the 21st of April and Capt. Shurlock's about the 1st of April. Capt. Thompson, we are pleased to learn, will be retained in the service.

Capt. Powell's company of the Oregon Infantry arrived at Fort Walla Walla on Wednesday, to take the place of the companies going below. The "boys" [illegible] appearance in their new [illegible]. We recognize a number of [illegible] in the Company, among whom are Captain Powell, Lieuts. S. [illegible] and C. H. Hill. [illegible] Gentlemen, we heartily greet you.

Capt. Borland's Company, of the Oregon Infantry, is en route to Colville to relieve Captain Glazier's Company of the W. T. Infantry, which has also been ordered to Vancouver to be mustered out of service.

The weather for the week has been somewhat variable. The snow of last week disappeared on Saturday, since which time we have had alternate days of sunshine and rain, intermingled with occasional "spits" of snow. To-day, "spring" again sheds her genial rays [illegible] forth.

The steamer Owyhee arrived at Wallula on Tuesday evening. There are now no impediments to navigation, and the boats will hereafter make regular trips.

FREAKS OF CANNON BALLS.—The Cincinnati Gazette relates the following affecting incident:

The cabin of the steamer Magnet, recently captured and re-captured on the Cumberland river, during the first performance was the scene of a rather extraordinary incident. The chambermaid, a resident of this city, named Rebecca Mit[illegible], was accompanied by her son, who, during the trip, had repeatedly cautioned his mother to lie down upon the floor if the enemy fired upon them. When the cannonading began, Mrs. Wetmore, the wife of the Captain, was in the cabin, resting her feet on the round of a table at which she was sitting. The first shot, a [illegible] pound rifled gun, passed through the cabin, tore up the floor under her chair, and glancing, struck the chambermaid on the forehead killing her instantly. Just at that moment the lad above mentioned entered to look after his mother, and finding her on the floor, said, "That's right, mother," and lay down by her side.

When the firing ceased, he was found in this position, his arms lovingly thrown about the dead parent, the poor boy unconscious that the life about which he was so solicitous had fled forever. This was the only casualty that took place, Mrs. Wetmore escaping injury, perhaps death, by the fact that her feet were not upon the floor. The attack upon our transports was particularly fatal to the chambermaids, not one of whom escaped. Two, those belonging to the Prima Donna and [illegible] Star, being killed by shells from the guns at [illegible], and the one we have named above becoming the victim of the rebel fire.

KENTUCKY RAPIDLY CHANGING.—The second vote of the Legislature of Kentucky for U. S. Senator—56 for General Rousseau to 65 for Mr. Guthrie—is the best sign yet given by this most indisposed of Border States to heed the lessons of experience. Gen. Rousseau organized the first Kentucky regiment raised to fight against secession and rebellion—organized when the loyalty of that State was so cold-blooded that it was deemed advisable to enlist, encamp and drill his Union volunteers on the Indiana side of the Ohio—when even John J. Crittenden discouraged volunteering, saying that Kentucky should leave the States North and South of her to fight out their quarrel, if they would fight. Of course Gen. Rousseau is a hearty immediate emancipationist, while Mr. Guthrie is still a Border State Conservative. Considering when and under what auspices this Legislature was elected, the fact that Guthrie has so small a majority is most cheering. Kentucky is not more than a year behind Missouri on the road to universal freedom.

G. B. Lamar, one of the original fire-eating rebels, who went South at the beginning of the war and was engaged as a blockade runner, recently figured at the "Citizens' Meeting" in Savannah, which resolved on peace and submission to the Union.

SINGER SEWING MACHINES!

MANUFACTORY:

182, 184, 186, 188, 190 and 194 Mott street, New York.

MOTTO—"The Singer Sewing Machines are the only Machines that can sew all kinds of Cloth, and with all kinds of Thread."

Singer's Letter A Family Machine is the best and cheapest Machine in the world for Family Sewing. There is no doubt as to the value of our Machines for manufacturing purposes, but it is only of late that the public began to learn that the essential elements of a Machine best adapted to the heaviest work, would also be the elements to be embodied in a Family Machine.

We would ask for our Letter A Machines the attention of Vest Makers and Dress Makers, and all those who want Machines for Light Manufacturing Purposes. They embody the principles of the Manufacturing Machines, making, like them, the interlocked stitch, and are destined to be as celebrated for FAMILY SEWING and Light Manufacturing purposes, as our Manufacturing Machines are for manufacturing purposes in general.

FAMILY SEWING MACHINES are valuable in proportion to the number of things they can do well. See what ours can do before making a purchase.

☞ All persons requiring information about Sewing Machines, their sizes, prices, working capacities, and the best method of purchasing, can obtain it by sending for a copy of the SINGER MANUFACTURING COMPANY'S ILLUSTRATED PAMPHLET, which is entirely devoted to the subject. IT WILL BE SENT GRATIS.

CITY COUNCIL MEETING.—The regular weekly meeting of the Council was held at the Council Chamber last evening. Mayor Failing and the following members were present: Messrs. Cook, Frazar, Bradon, Gilmore, and Starr. Absent—Messrs. Bennett, Hoffman, Robertson, McCraken. The minutes of the previous meeting were read by the Clerk and approved.

A petition from Messrs. Ankeny, C. M. and T. J. Carter, G. W. Vaughn, Hoyt, Ladd, Tilton, Stark and others by their Attorney in fact, in relation to the improvement of Front street, 6974 feet being a portion of that included in the late remonstrance, and which here is recorded in favor of the McAdamize method, or "indeed anything but planking"—was received. The petitioners pray for permanent improvement, and the document was temporarily laid upon the table.

The City Surveyor submitted a few suggestions in relation to the best method of improving Front street, at the request of the committee. The Nicholson Pavement, in his estimation, appears to be the best adapted to our climate and soil, he having seen a recommendation from one who has had the best opportunities to test its merits, and in whose honesty and judgment he has great confidence. Other methods were spoken of and the communication was placed in the hands of the committee on streets and public property.

Warrants were authorized to be drawn in favor of the following claims against the city: S. S[illegible], for 52 shade trees for the plaza, at $4 each, $[illegible]; J. H. Egan, for repairs to street lamps; Jas. Donnelly, for street work, $[illegible].

An ordinance authorizing the improvement of Washington street, from Front to Tenth street, by grading and McAdamizing passed the third reading, and further action was postponed until the next meeting.

Mr. Starr offered a resolution which was adopted authorizing the City Auditor to ascertain the names of the owners of all property adjacent to Front street, from Pine to Hall, and as far as possible learn the manner in which such owners would prefer to improve the street, and report at the next meeting of the Council.

Mr. Cook offered a resolution which was adopted authorizing the committee on fire and water to ascertain the expense necessary for the repairs to Engine house No. 2.

On motion, Council adjourned.

THE WILLAMETTE STEAMERS.—The frame for one of the new opposition steamers on the Willamette river was taken to Canemah on Thursday, and will be in running order it is thought within a very few weeks. It is of light draft and will be able to run the entire season as far as Salem, according to the design of her builders. The P. T. Company, not calculating to be out-Rivaled, we understand, will soon build a new boat to run in connection with the Senator below the Falls, and two to run above the Falls. The opposition also intend the construction of a new boat to ply between Oregon city and Portland.

THE LINE.—The telegraph line was down yesterday between here and Oregon City. Dr. Plummer dispatched an assistant, Mr. Frank Conway, to put it in order, early in the day, and he traced the line to the crossing of the Willamette, a short distance below Milwaukie, on foot. He was unable to cross the river and returned to this city, procured a horse and started again, on the east side of the river, intending to have the line up at an early hour this morning.

THE SUCKER LAKE ENTERPRISE.—The railroad is partly finished from the head of Sucker Lake to the Tualitan river, and a fair test proves its adaptability to the purposes for which it has been constructed. The cars, one of which is on the ground, are built by A. C. Gibbs & Co., of this city, and work perfectly. They are ten feet long, by eight feet wide, and have thirty inch wheels adapted to the gauge of five feet. The car which was used to test the road had been placed upon a raft of logs and floated to the head of the lake from Oswego. The plan of this road must eventually open an avenue to the Tualitan country.

THE PUGET SOUND COMMISSION.—Among the officers attached to the new mixed commission for settling the affairs of the Puget Sound and Hudson Bay Companies, growing out of the old Oregon treaty of 1846, is George Gibbes, well known to Oregonians for his services in the Boundary Survey on the Puget Sound and British Columbia line, and for his literary labors connected with the Indian tribes and languages of this coast. Mr. Gibbes acts as one of the secretaries of the commission which holds its sessions at Washington.

PACKAGE LOST.—We are informed by the Postmaster that our regular package of the DAILY OREGONIAN for Salem, yesterday morning, was missing when the mail closed. Our mailing clerk is quite sure he made no mistake in putting it up, but it may possibly have been lost on the way to the Post Office. Any person finding it will confer a favor by leaving it at this office. If stolen, we will give a reward for the apprehension of the thief.

FINE WEATHER. — Yesterday was decidedly [illegible], in the language of an appreciative "spitter." The sun shone warm for the greater part of the day, causing every one to forget that it was hailing in the morning. But, then, it may be that it was in consequence of being hailed that it "come out" so nicely.

WALLA WALLA ONIONS.—Quite an item in the way of domestic produce receipts is noticed in the arrival of an invoice of Onions from Walla Walla valley for our city trade. This is considerable of a change from the old way of things on the Columbia, and who knows but that some day soon, we will be in a great measure dependent upon the upper country for such articles. Turn about is fair play.

A NEW PROPELLER.—Capt. John Kerns proposes the erection of a new propeller, seventy foot long, thirteen feet beam, and four feet hold, to take the place of the Loyal Ellsworth, owned in Brooklyn and engaged in the wood trade. The new craft will be put up within a few months, is to have a four foot propeller and will be in every way a useful boat.

NEW PAPER.—We have received the first and second numbers of a new paper entitled the California Home Journal. It is published semi-monthly in San Francisco, by T. Hart Hyatt & Co., and devoted to agriculture, domestic economy, and home interests generally. As an agricultural journal we commend it to our readers as being conducted with taste and ability.

THEATRE.—This evening at Willamette Theatre will be presented the celebrated story of King Phillip's time, entitled "Metamora, or the last of the Wampanoags," G. B. Waldron as Metamora, the Chief, Mrs. Macdonald as Nahmeokee. The performance to conclude with a favorite farce.

THE ASCENSION.—[illegible] know how to attract the attention of the public on a dull day. Last evening they had the "whole town" gazing after a balloon which they had set afloat in the endless space of the zenith.

FURNITURE SALE.—Mr. N. D. Richardson will sell the furniture and household effects of G. Collier Robbins, at auction to-day. See advertisement which embraces everything.

Mrs. A. J. Butler will speak under "Spirit control" at the Court House to-morrow evening at 7½ o'clock. Subject—"Is Spiritualism a Religion?" and is it so recognized. At the close of the Lecture an opportunity will be given for asking questions. Seats free.

Attention, Washington Artillery.—There will be a Special Meeting of your Company at your Armory on Monday evening at 7 o'clock. All members are requested to be present. By order of

WEEKLY COMMERCIAL REVIEW.

PORTLAND, March 25, 1865.

The most features of trade and commercial interest generally, during the period under review, has been the continued receipts of agricultural products from the interior of this Valley, which has kept up to the standard, or average of about 400 tons for the week. This is principally Flour and Grain, although small quantities of Bacon are beginning to come forward.

The exports of the week, in produce, have been about 500 tons, valued at $[illegible]. The country it is feared by many, is shipping too much of its breadstuffs for the California market, and will be likely to create a great scarcity at home. In accordance with this view there is an advance in the sale of Flour, and to-day it is held firm at previous quotations, with a prospect of a further advance, placing it above shipping rates. Four or five months must elapse before any returns can be expected from the coming harvest, and at the present rate of export it would not be astonishing to note importations of Flour, to supply the home demand, before that season arrives. These deductions are based upon the almost absolute certainty that there is now a limited quantity on hand, both of Flour and Wheat. Buyers are offering $2 00 ⅌ bushel for Wheat, for milling purposes.

The wreck of the Industry has been to our merchants considerable loss, but is light compared to the suffering of the unfortunate ones left in her rigging, full accounts of which have been previously given. The loss of the ship deprives the Oregon trade of one of her packets, but we presume the place will be readily supplied by another bark. The ill-fated vessel could not have been worth less than $[illegible].

The barkentine Jane A. Falkenburg, Capt. Wass, from San Francisco March 2d, was off the bar on the day previous to the wreck of the Industry, but could not be reached by the Pilot Boat, in consequence of bad weather and was yet outside on Monday, but is likely to arrive by the steamer Parade to-morrow.

Communication is open to the mining regions, but as yet trade and travel is not very brisk.

Wholesale and Jobbing Prices.

PORTLAND, March 24, 1865.

The Jobbing and Wholesale market has been visited by an inspiring hope of activity for the past few days, which is sufficient to warrant the belief that a steady trade may be expected for the season, from the interior, especially from the mining regions.

Numerous small orders for staple goods have been received, and in one instance we have a large sale to note, of assorted goods.

Transactions in Bacon have been more frequent, and as the season advances prices will be higher and receipts better. The sales noted have been at quotations below.

Kerosene has advanced in San Francisco, going up on Thursday last at the rate of 10c ⅌ gallon. We have no sales to report, and all parties appear to be holding off for future developments, and it is impossible to name reliable quotations.

Liquors also have a sudden start upward. The best brands of Monongahela cannot now be purchased in San Francisco at the quotations of last week in this city. We have sales to note of 50 bbls., Starr's brand, at private terms, but we are sufficiently warranted in saying the price was above previous quotations.

Weekly Retail Family Market.

PRICES CURRENT.

Saturday, P. M., March 24, 1865.

The market is quiet. The provision department, however, seems to be constantly advancing.

The quantity and quality of vegetables does not appear to fluctuate much, although diminishing slightly. We have to note the receipt of a shipment of Onions from Walla Walla, to O'Connor & Co., of this city, which is decidedly a new thing in a commercial point of view and tends to the thought that it may be increased somewhat and under the stimulating exertions of the Walla Walla Valley farmers the receipts from the Columbia river may be not of treasure only. The price is higher than the same article of produce from our own Valley, in consequence of the scarcity.

Apples have advanced, owing to the lack of an ample supply for the trade.

A Single Box of Brandreth's Pills contains more vegetable extractive matter than twenty boxes of any pills in the world besides; fifty-five hundred physicians use them in their practice to the exclusion of other purgatives. The first letter of their value is yet scarcely appreciated. When they are better known sudden death and continued sickness will be things of the past. Let those who know them speak right out in their favor. It is a duty which will save life.

Our race are subject to a redundancy of vitiated bile at this season, and it is as dangerous as it is prevalent; but Brandreth's Pills afford an invaluable and efficient protection. By their occasional use we prevent the collection of those impurities, which, when in sufficient quantities, cause so much danger to the body's health. They soon cure Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, loss of appetite, pain in the head, heart burn, pain in the breast, bone, sudden faintness, and costiveness.

Cure Your Cold, Save Your Lungs.

NEWELL'S PULMONARY SYRUP

HAS

CURED THOUSANDS!

And it will Cure You!

"A Cough is generally the effect of a Cold, which has either been improperly treated or entirely neglected. When it proves obstinate there is

STOP THAT COUGHING!

Some of you can't, and we pity you. You have tried every remedy but the one destined, by its intrinsic merit, to supersede all similar preparations. NEWELL'S

Is really the VERY BEST remedy ever compounded for the relief of Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Asthma, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis and Consumption. Thousands of people in California and Oregon have been already benefited by its surprising curative powers.

WHAT KILLED HIM?

Dr. Hall, in his "Journal of Health," speaking of the death of Washington Irving, asks the above question, and adds: "He might have remained with us for some years to come, had it not been for advice kindly intended, no doubt, but given in thoughtlessness and reckless ignorance.

He Had a Cold!

Which by some injudicious prescription, had been converted into asthma." Let me say to Dr. Hall that that "prescription" was not

The Return.

"Three years!" I wonder if she'll know me?
I limp a little, and I left one arm
At Petersburg; and I am grown as brown
As the plump chestnuts on my little farm;
And I am as shaggy as the chestnut burs,
But ripe and sweet within, and wholly hers.

"The darling! how I long to see her!
My heart outruns this feeble soldier pace;
For I remember, after I had left,
A little Charlie came to take my place.
Ah! how the laughing three-year-old brown eyes—
His mother's eyes—will stare with pleased surprise!

"Sure, they'll be at the corner watching!
I sent them word that I should come to-night;
The birds all know it, for they crowd around,
Twittering their welcome with a wild delight;
And that old robin with a halting wing,
I saved her life three years ago last spring.

"Three years—perhaps I am but dreaming,
For, like the pilgrim of the long ago,
I've tugged a weary burden at my back,
Through summer's heat and winter's blinding snow,
Till now I reach my home, my darling's breast,
Where I can roll my burden off—and rest."

* * * * *

When morning came, the early rising sun
Laid his light finger on a soldier sleeping
Where a soft covering of bright green grass
Over two lowly mounds was lightly creeping;
But waked him not; his was the rest eternal,
Where the brown eyes reflected love supernal.

A Struggle for Life.

"Ay, ay, sir, sometimes. It is not all plain sailing always; but pretty much the contrary, may-be. Very pleasant for fresh-water sailors; a smooth sea like this, and sunshine with all the rest of it; but put 'em aboard some dark night, with what you may call a regular sou-wester, and set them to reefing in tops, and see what they'll make of it."

The speaker was a weather-beaten mariner; at that particular time he was steering a small pleasure boat, while his auditor was baiting the hook of a fishing line.

"And you have had your share of that sort of thing, I dare say," said the landsman.

The boatman pointed to a line of breakers a mile or two seaward. "You have heard of 'the black spine,' I suppose," he said, abruptly.

"I can't say that I have," replied the other.

"Well, no matter; that's it then."

"Rock, perhaps?"

"Yes; you can't see them now, the tide's coming in. 'Tis only at low water they show themselves—as ugly a reef as you would wish to see, any day; and worse by the other half in the night time."

"Rather dangerous, I suppose?" said the stranger, laconically; "many vessels wrecked there?"

"Why, you see, there's no vessel has any business there, hugging the shore so close as that just in the bay, with the light to warn it off. A skipper must be mad to run in here, night or day; but then, there are mad skippers. I have seen one vessel wrecked there, anyhow."

"When was that, and how?" asked "fresh-water," pulling up his line, and relieving the hook of a whiting.

"As for the when, it was nine and twenty years ago come November; as for the how, that's more than anybody knows, for there wasn't a soul of the crew left to tell the story. I was aboard of her, too, after she struck."

"How was that?" asked the landsman, with an awkward interest in the conversation.

"I'll tell you, sir," said the mariner; and, except that it may lose somewhat of its interest by being dribbled through the pen of a "fresh-water," this is his story:

"It was as cold, sharp, and blustering a November evening as you would wish to see, sir. The wind was blowing great guns, and the rain was coming down in good trim. I was a young chap then; hadn't been long spliced, not above a year or so; our first young one was asleep in the cradle, and its mother had drawn up to the fire; and says she, 'How glad I am, Tom, you ain't out to-night.' I had part share then in a small boat; and I and my partner were to have been afloat that night, fishing, if the storm hadn't come on.

"It was five minutes after she said that, that I heard a gun, and after that, another; and while I was listening the door of my cottage was opened, and in came my partner Larkins. 'Tom,' said he, 'there's a craft of some sort or other on the black spine yonder.'

"I wasn't long putting on my rough and ready, I can tell you, and was just going out o' doors, when Esther clapped me on the arm. Poor girl, she was pale as a sheet, and 'Tom,' she says, 'don't—don't!'

"'What!' said I, 'not if there's any poor souls in danger, and I can help save 'em?'

"'I didn't think that,' said Esther; 'but whatever you do, take care of yourself, for my sake,' she said, 'and his'—and she pointed to the cradle.

"Well, sir, I promised I wouldn't run into any danger if I could help it. Just then another gun came booming across the water, and I could see the flash. 'That's from the black spine,' I said, 'sure enough;' and I gave Esther just one kiss, and followed Larkins down to the beach. It wasn't a pleasant thing by any means. The waves were coming in three abreast, and dashing up the spray enough to blind one; and to windward was a gathering of wild black clouds that showed there was more storm to come yet. Some of our people were on the beach looking out; but that was all they were doing.

"'Tom,' said Larkins, laying his hand on my shoulder, poor fellow—'Tom, ours is a tough boat.' He was a brave fellow, sir, as ever steered, and none the worse for being religious, though he had to bear a good deal because of it. 'Tom, ours is a tough boat,' said he.

"'Ay, tough enough,' I said; 'and if we could get her fairly afloat, and well manned, something might be done, perhaps.'

"Well, sir, to make short work of the story, we did get the little craft afloat at last, but not a man was there to join us. They all cried out that we were mad to think of getting out to the black spine such a night as that; and what could we do when we got there? But it didn't matter. 'Pull away, Larkins,' I said; for we didn't dare put up sail; and a few strokes of the oar carried us a good bit from the shore. I shall never forget that minute, sir; it was too dark to see much that was going on; but just then I heard a scream and a cry of 'Tom, Tom.' It was our Esther, my young wife. Somebody had gone to my cottage and told her what was going on; and she had run down, half beside herself, though whether it was to stay me from going, or to say, 'Go and God bless you,' was more than she could rightly have told, mayhap. I stood up in the boat and shouted out as cheerfully as I could; and then we began to pull away again in right earnest. Our little boat stood it bravely, and floated like a cork, though we had shipped water enough at first to make us in doubt whether we should ever get to the rocks; but when we were right out, she was like a seagull on the waves. Of course we didn't waste much time talking; but just one word or two Larkins spoke.

"'Tom,' said he, 'I am a most sorry I tempted you to this trip. If anything happens there's nobody much to miss me; but you have a young wife and baby.'

"Well, sir, you may suppose I had been thinking about Esther and the young one too; but before I could say a word another gun was fired from the vessel, which we now and then caught sight of when our boat was on the top of a wave.

"I don't know how long a time it was, but we neared the wreck at last, and they hove us a line to make fast by. The rocks were well under the water then, for the tide was in, and our little craft floated along side of the vessel to leeward; and somehow I managed to board her, leaving my partner to take what care he could of the boat. It was a bad move that, sir, as it turned out, for the men aboard were all beside themselves, some with drink and some with fear.

"The wreck was a middling-sized brig, a foreigner—that was plain enough, and it was plain enough, too, that it was all over with her. It was wonderful to me how she had lived so long, for she was stove in at the bow and her stern hung over deep water, but she was settling down fast. And the crew were crowded together in the fore part, except one or two, who were hanging on the shrouds.

"There was not much light; but there was enough to show that no time was to be lost, and the brig's crew saw that too. It was no use. I shouted and shouted, but one after another they sprang over the side of the wreck, some into the boat and some into the sea. It was not five minutes, sir, before the deck was cleared. How many there had been aboard I couldn't tell, nor how many missed in getting in the boat, and were washed away without giving a chance of saving them; but when I looked down there was our little bark, sunk almost down to the gunwale and the men crowding and tumbling one upon another. I saw at once how it would be, and I hailed them as loud as I could, and begged some of them to come back again. You see, sir, there would have been some hope then. The wreck might have held together for a while, and in two trips it could have been cleared. But whether the men did not hear me, or didn't heed, I can't say; or perhaps they did not understand me, for, as I said, I could see they were foreigners. Be that how it may, there was no time to [illegible] to reason. When I found that, sir, I called to my poor partner to quit the boat; for, bad as it was, there was more hope of life by keeping to the wreck. I always thought he did make a move, sir, towards the brig, but it was too late; there came just then a swell, the line parted, and the boat floated off, and I was alone on the wreck.

"In another minute, sir, I lost sight of the boat as it floated away heavily. I had not any hope for it. I knew what it could do, but in such a sea as that, and loaded as it was, I knew it could not live. And I was right, sir; it wasn't five minutes before I heard such shrieks as I hope I shall never hear again. The wind and the dashing of the waves against the wreck was loud enough, but above all rose that shriek. I stopped my ears, sir. It didn't last long.

"But there I was, not much time to think at all. [illegible] had passed [illegible] now, what was I to do? [illegible] with the ship's timbers groaning like a thing in agony, and [illegible] beneath me. [illegible] It was getting darker and darker every minute; for before, there had been a moon, though it was behind the clouds; but it was going down; and all around I saw the waves leaping and dashing against the poor wreck, and threatening every moment to [illegible] the hold it had somehow got upon the rocks. What was I to do, sir?"

"I trust you remembered who it is," rejoined the landsman, whose fishing tackle was for the time unheeded—"who it is that holds the waters in the hollow of His hand."

"I prayed that night, and that loud, sir," resumed the boatman, "as I had never prayed before. I besought the Lord, sir, as David says, and he heard me, and delivered me from all my fears."

"But it was a hard struggle for life, sir, that I [illegible]."

"How did you escape?" inquired the listener.

"It was a mercy," resumed the seaman, "that the wind began to sink a little; but the rain poured down heavily, and the waves rolled in great heavy swells. Anyhow, I didn't expect to see the morning, for it seemed certain that at the falling of the tide the wreck would lurch over and sink like a stone.

"Just that thing happened, and sooner than I expected. I had only time to jump overboard when I felt her going; and by God's mercy, sir, I got just hold of a point of the rock that was then above the water. I clung to it for dear life; how I managed I can't think to this day, for my senses were almost gone for the time, and it seemed as if all the waves of the sea were pulling at me to get me under. By the time I came to, I found myself on my knees, with the rock under me, and the waves every moment dashing over my head. Well, sir, I managed to raise myself on my feet, and turned around to look for the wreck; but she was gone.

"Through the rest of the night I was on the rock, just able to hold on. But I believed when the tide came in again it would be all over with me. I cannot tell you what my thoughts were, sir; I seemed like one in a dream. Well, morning came at last, and then the tide was rising again. 'This is the last morning that I shall ever see;' I remember thinking that, and thinking, too, of poor Esther. It was a strange notion; but my mind would keep running upon how it would be, when my body was picked up, may be, and carried ashore; who would break the news to Esther, and what would be said; and then I fancied I saw her in widow's weeds, and the little one all in black; and then I could not help laughing to myself at my queer fancies, as if it would matter to me how these things went. How long I might have gone on in this way I cannot tell, if I had not seen something else to think about.

"It was a black speck on the water, sir—no bigger than a hat it looked. I watched it, and watched it, and it came nearer and nearer. It was our boat, sir, bottom upwards.

"I was not much of a swimmer, but thinks I there is some hope now; and I managed to get off my shoes and heavy jacket, and struck out to the poor old boat. It was about time I left the rock; in another half hour I should have been washed away.

"I reached the boat, sir, pretty nearly exhausted, and clung to it till I had got breath and strength to raise myself on to its hull, which I did at last."

"And then you felt yourself safe?"

"Ay, for a little while I fancied something of the sort; but you may give a guess, perhaps, that I should have felt a trifle safer if I had been on shore."

"Where you were being drifted, I hope?"

"I hoped so, sir, and kept up a good heart for awhile; but by and by the tide turned again, and I knew I was going farther and farther out to sea; and there was not a sail in sight. You may not think it, sir, but I felt as if I could cry like a child. I was faint with fatigue, and dried up with thirst, and I almost envied my poor partner his fate—leastways, if I had been as ready to die as he was.

"All that day, sir, I was on the water holding on to the old boat. It was a dark, gloomy day; but that was a mercy; if the sun had blazed hot upon me, I should have gone mad, I think; as it was, I was only chilled to the bones, while the showers that now and then fell, if they soaked me to the skin, they helped me quench my thirst.

"About noon that day I looked round and saw a sail, maybe a couple of miles to windward. I need not say how I watched it, and what I would have given to have been within hail. It came nearer, and I shouted—nearer still, and I shouted again. I thought they heard me, for in a minute or two the ship's course altered a point or so. I kept hailing, sir, till my voice was gone; and then I saw the vessel—a schooner—sailing off, when there wasn't, maybe, half a mile between us.

"That afternoon another sail and then another passed me, but too far off for to make myself heard, while I knew I was being drifted every minute further out to sea.

"It was getting toward dusk, and I was nearly perished with cold and hunger. A sort of feeling came over me, sir, that it was no use to hold on any longer. It was better to die at once than to die by inches in that way. I think my senses wandered, or perhaps I swooned; I can't say; but I know I had hold of the keel with both hands, and my head was across my arms, when all at once the flapping of a sail roused me, and then I heard a shout, 'A hoy there—boat ahoy!'

"I never heard such a blessed sound as that in my whole life, sir, before or since—never. You may think how it put life into me. In five minutes more I was safe on board the vessel that had pretty near been running me down. She was a coal brig.

"Well, three days afterwards I was landed, fifty miles more from home. You may guess that I was not longer on the road than I could help. It was towards night all that I stepped up softly to the cottage door. A light was burning, and the curtains were not drawn. I looked in, sir. There was poor Esther, pale and thin with grief and watching, nursing our little one, and hushing it to sleep. Beside her was a neighbor busy at needle work, and on the table was a heap of black stuff and crape. I did not wait to see any more; the next minute poor Esther was in my arms. A happy night that was for us, sir."

Great Injustice.

THE ATTENTION OF THE BUSINESS COMMUNITY is again called to the OLD GREENBACK CASE!

HAVING BEEN COMPELLED TO ACCEPT OF LEGAL TENDER NOTES AT PAR since December 17th, 1862, for the rent of my Handsome Brick Store, corner of Morrison and Front streets, I feel compelled to announce for the benefit of the public at large, that

Jacob Mayer

Leased the building of me on the 17th day of February, 1862, for a term of years, at which time there was no such currency in vogue, and it was understood the terms were CASH. Since the date above stated I have received the depreciated currency regularly, under protest for the rent of the

CITY OF PARIS STORE,

Making less than two-fifths of the real amount said Mayer was to pay. He had secured the building at very advantageous rates, and even were he now to comply with his contract, and pay in COIN, would be getting the best bargain in the city. I make this statement to show the public what kind of a man he must be to take such undue advantage of the times to convert a few dollars to himself by LEGAL SWINDLING. The public can readily see what it costs to have such tenants. G. W. VAUGHN.

LILLIE'S LOCK OPENED

In One Minute.

New York, September 2, 1864.

F. TILLMAN, Esq., 218 Battery street,
[illegible], San Francisco:

DEAR SIR: WE NOTICE AN ADvertisement in the daily papers respecting the opening of the "Lillie Lock." We regret to state that you should understand the lock, & c. of course, will not allow ourselves to be [illegible] by such representations. We have just sent for one of our own [illegible] and the [illegible] of Lillie's best safe locks. After it had been locked and the combination turned on,

By One Blow of the Hammer

Against the knob on the outside, and thereby breaking the cast iron bolt inside.

The whole time occupied in opening the lock was about ONE MINUTE. We send you this so that your friends may not be deceived by false representations, &c.

Respectfully yours,

OPERATE THE SAID LILLIE LOCK.

Any parties desirous of seeing the above mentioned Lock, its insecurity and easy mode of opening the same, can call at 218 Battery Street, San Francisco.

Cincinnati, March 26, 1864.

Messrs. TILTON & McFARLAND,
Safe Manufacturers, Boston, Mass.

Gentlemen:—From representations made by Mr. Lillie, I was induced to purchase of him one of his

So Called "Fire Proof Safes."

On the 18th of February last, a fire occurred in our block which destroyed a number of buildings, and our own with the rest. We kept our books, papers, &c., all in the safe. After the fire the so-called "safe" was taken from the ruins, and on opening it we found that Everything had been Destroyed.

We send you the safe, with what is left of the papers, and you will see that not one of them is legible or strong enough to sustain its own weight. Having the curiosity to know how our neighbors fared in this fire, we noticed McKenzie & Hardy just opening their safe (TILTON & McFARLAND'S make), and its contents were found to be

In Perfect Condition.

This led us to further investigation, and we found to our astonishment that from the large amount of combustible material in Messrs. McK. & H.'s cellar—such as lard, pork, &c.,—their safe was subjected to a much greater heat than that of our own, we being in the clothing business and had but little in the cellar. There was another of Lillie's safes here subjected to the same fire, faring, however, no better than ours.

Very respectfully,
Your obedient servants,
(Signed,) GEO. L. CHESBORO & CO.

"CONSTITUTION WATER,"

THE ONLY REMEDY FOR DISEASES OF THE

BLADDER, KIDNEYS,

Gravel, Dropsical Swellings,

GENITAL DEBILITY, ETC.

THE ASTONISHING SUCCESS WHICH HAS ATtended this invaluable medicine renders it the most valuable one ever discovered. No language can convey an adequate idea of the immediate and almost miraculous change which it occasions in the debilitated and shattered system. In fact, it stands unrivalled as a remedy for the permanent cure of the maladies above-mentioned, and also—

DIABETES, IMPOTENCY,
LOSS OF MUSCULAR ENERGY,
PHYSICAL PROSTRATION,
INDIGESTION,
SEMINAL WEAKNESS,
GLEET, FLUOR ALBUS,

And in every disease in any way connected with the disorder or decay of the PROCREATIVE FUNCTIONS. Persons about to marry, if conscious of any weakness, should take the

CONSTITUTION WATER,

Whether broken down by excess, weak by nature, or impaired by sickness, the unstrung and relaxed organization is at once rebraced, revivified and built up. Well may this celebrated medicine be called the

MEDICAL WONDER.

The stooping, trembling victim of depression and debility becomes a new man; he stands erect, he moves with a firm step; his mind, which was previously sunk in gloom or an almost idiotic apathy, becomes bright and active; and he goes forth regenerated, conscious of new vigor.—The medicine reaches the CONSTITUTION itself, and restores it to its normal condition.

STRANGUARY AND BURNING,

URINATING;
CALCULUS, GRAVEL,
BRICK DUST DEPOSIT, AND MUCOUS

For these diseases it is truly a sovereign remedy, and too much cannot be said in its praise. A single dose has been known to relieve the most urgent symptoms. TRY IT in these cases, and you will ever give praise to

LUNG BALSAM!

The Remedy for Curing

CONSUMPTION, COUGHS, COLDS,

Asthma, Croup,

Diseases of the Throat, Bronchitis, Pains and Oppression of the Chest and Lungs, Difficult Breathing and all the Diseases of the Pulmonary Organs.

ITS ACTION IS EXPECTORANT, ALTERATIVE, SUDORIFIC, SEDATIVE, DIAPHORETIC AND DIURETIC, which renders it one of the most valuable ones known for curing diseases of the lungs. It excites expectoration, and causes the lungs to throw off the phlegm or mucus; CHANGES THE SECRETIONS AND PURIFIES THE BLOOD, heals the irritated parts, gives strength to the digestive organs; brings the liver to its proper action, and imparts strength to the whole system. Such is the immediate and satisfactory effect, that it is WARRANTED TO BREAK UP THE MOST DISTRESSING COUGH IN A FEW HOURS' TIME, if not of too long standing. IT IS WARRANTED to give entire satisfaction even in the MOST CONFIRMED CASES OF CONSUMPTION. IT IS WARRANTED NOT to produce costiveness (which is the case with most remedies), or affect the head, as it contains no Opium in any form. IT IS WARRANTED TO BE PERFECTLY HARMLESS to the most delicate child, although it is an active and powerful remedy for restoring the system. THERE IS NO REAL NECESSITY FOR SO MANY DEATHS BY CONSUMPTION, when ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM will prevent it, if only taken in time.

Sold by all Druggists. Price $1 per bottle.
